RESEARCH DRAFT 0.3 / 13 OCTOBER 2026

Addresses checked against public sources. This revised draft supplies routes and linked directions. The web edition has 40 address/building pins; these are not surveyed entrances. Appointment-only makers and branch uncertainties remain identified.

THE CIRCUIT / NEW YORK

A city of specialists.

The Shanghai field-guide structure, translated to New York's neighborhoods, shop floors and working ateliers.

Benchmade & Buyer's

Alden, Leffot, C&J;, Carmina and The Armoury form the spine: last fitting, leather comparison, retailer makeups and the route from ready-to-wear to bespoke.

Heritage & Workwear

Viberg, RRL, Standard & Strange and Self Edge connect patina to use. Thursday and Blundstone add practical comparisons; clothing shops show shoes in a wardrobe.

Care & Recraft

Leather Spa and B. Nelson bring maintenance into the circuit. A repair consultation is a chance to understand sole choice, welt preservation and the future life of a pair.

Local Color

Brooklyn makers, craft education and independent designer shops widen the study. This register includes artisanal and experimental footwear, plus clearly marked context stops.

THE LABELS

Anchor: a destination around which to build a day. Discovery: an addition beyond the initial list. Context: broader wardrobe or design value. Practical: fit, value, utility or repair.

Research describes published offerings, not a guaranteed current rack. Hours and availability should be reconfirmed for the actual visit. Route order and priorities are editorial recommendations.

BEYOND THE OBVIOUS

The discoveries to prioritise.

Eight additions that deepen the atlas beyond a list of luxury brands.

Francis Waplinger / 33

A real Brooklyn shoemaker at Industry City; an especially strong lead for construction and maker interviews.

Brooklyn Shoe Space / 32

Classes and a shared workshop connect directly to the current moccasin inquiry. Arrange a learning visit.

STIEFELwerk / 34

Custom footwear, expressive leather and an artist-educator's approach. Appointment only.

Standard & Strange / 14

Clinch, John Lofgren and Rolling Dub Trio broaden the boot comparison substantially.

C'H'C'M' / 16

Hender Scheme, Ludwig Reiter and Phileo offer a quieter, materially interesting select-shop register.

IF SoHo + Hotoveli / 09 + 35

The strongest additional leads for Guidi and artisanal footwear; confirm specific models and access.

180 The Store / 04

An easily missed Duane Street discovery beside The Armoury, with Guidi listed by the maker.

Hatchet / 37

An official visvim stockist in Brooklyn, with a useful outdoor-utility perspective.

ROUTES 01 & 02

Downtown, then up the grid.

These are shopping circuits, not single compulsory walks. Pick five or six stops for a day of serious fitting.

01 / Downtown: collectors & independent shops

Suggested spine: Leffot (01), The Armoury Tribeca (03), Drake's (12), C&J; SoHo (07), Viberg (13), Standard & Strange (14). Plan two half-days if trying on shoes at every anchor.

Choose a downtown cluster

Tribeca: The Armoury, 180 The Store, Todd Snyder Liquor Store; AE Brookfield as a southern extension.
SoHo: RRL, C&J;, Meermin, IF, Blue in Green, Blundstone and Thursday SoHo (41).
Nolita / NoHo: Viberg, Standard & Strange, Slowear and C'H'C'M'.
West Village / LES: Leffot and Atelier in the west; Self Edge as an eastern extension.

02 / Flatiron & Midtown: fit, scale & comparison

Suggested spine: Thursday (19), Todd Snyder NoMad (18), Moulded Shoe (21), Alden Madison (22), Carmina (23), C&J; Midtown (24). Use transit between the Flatiron and Midtown clusters.

Optional Midtown extensions

Dover Street Market (20) for broader discovery; Nepenthes (40) for Japanese Americana; Leather Spa (38) and B. Nelson (39) for care; Bergdorf men's (26) for luxury comparison. AE Rockefeller Center offers another fitting option.

Routing note: exact entrances, walk distances and subway accessibility have not been field-tested. The directions link on each entry supplies the destination address to a map service.

ROUTES 03 & 04

Townhouses and workbenches.

One compact uptown circuit and three Brooklyn clusters linked by transit.

03 / Upper East Side: craft in a wardrobe

Suggested south-to-north order: John Lobb (25), Ralph Lauren men's / Purple Label (30), The Armoury UES (27), The Row (28), Sid & Ann Mashburn (29). Choose three for extended fitting or conversation.

The two Armourys

Both stores deserve independent entries. Visit one for an introductory conversation; visit both when branch stock or a trunk show justifies it. The relevant makers and sizes should be confirmed separately.

04 / Brooklyn: makers, learning & utility

Williamsburg: Hotoveli (35), Blundstone (36) and a prearranged Brooklyn Shoe Space visit (32). Hotoveli access should be confirmed.
Brooklyn Heights / Cobble Hill: Hatchet (37), an easy retail visit in its own cluster.
Industry City: Francis Waplinger (33), a separate journey to Sunset Park.
Clinton Hill: STIEFELwerk (34), only with an agreed appointment.

Build around the appointment

For Brooklyn, schedule the maker or class first and then add nearby retail. Industry City and Williamsburg should not be represented as adjacent stops on a short walking route.

First-visit priority: Leffot + Moulded Shoe + Alden Madison for the Alden study; Viberg + Standard & Strange for boots; Francis Waplinger + Brooklyn Shoe Space for making.

La Garconne, 465 Greenwich Street, is listed separately for WMV. A brand listing does not promise footwear stock or an eth0s-sized selection. visvim list | WMV list

The Brooklyn appointment network

Waplinger's official contact page names Robinson Brooklyn as another appointment venue. Use the maker's booking process before creating a separate Robinson footwear pin. Other handmade studio names from old guides need current maker and access confirmation.

From research draft to mapped edition

Verify street entrances and exact coordinates; contact the uncertain branches; separate footwear stock by location; record maker visits and photographs; add dated history records. The published map should distinguish walk-in retail, arranged ateliers and historical sites.

Suggested destination fields: name, neighborhood, register, footwear focus, visit mode, address, verified coordinates, official sources, date checked, priority and route membership. STIEFELwerk should remain appointment-only with no precise public pin.

EVIDENCE & SCOPE

A draft built to be checked.

Research: 12 October 2026; address and editorial corrections: 13 October 2026. No calls, bookings or visits were made.

What the sources establish

Each destination carries clickable source links. Current official store pages establish most addresses. Maker stockist lists corroborate several independent retailers. Neighborhood business directories support John Lobb and The Row. Hotoveli's appointment label also uses a secondary local directory.

What remains provisional

Atelier's branch allocation; Blundstone seasonal operation; current appointment access at workshops; and location-specific stock remain provisional. DSM and Nepenthes have conflicting or retained hours notices. Carmina's official page lists Monday-Saturday hours but does not publish Sunday hours.

Stock, makers & recommendations

Listed makers reflect the source pages consulted. A retailer's website can combine multiple branches, pre-orders, past events and sold-out products. The visit notes therefore call for location-specific confirmation. Priority, route selection and relevance to Study in Shell are editorial judgments.

The atlas format

This is the researched, portable draft of a second city edition. It retains the Shanghai guide's four-register logic, warm-paper palette and collector's perspective. Four NYC circuits include Brooklyn's separate craft clusters.

Map readiness

The web edition has 41 destinations and 40 address/building pins, matched to NYC Planning records. No surveyed entrances or route distances are claimed. STIEFELwerk has no public street pin. The PDF supplies linked address searches; use the web atlas for its interactive map.
